MEET OUR PASTOR

Rev. Holly McKissick has been pastor of Saint Andrew Christian Church since its beginning in 1990. A Texan by birth, she attended Texas A&M and Texas Christian University, graduating with honors. She earned her Master of Divinity degree in 1987 from TCU's Brite Divinity School.

The Rev. McKissick is a contributing religion writer for The Kansas City Star and a dynamic featured speaker. Holly's commitments to the local and global community are evident in her service on numerous boards, including the Division of Overseas Ministry, the Disciples Divinity House at the University of Chicago, the Disciples Peace Fellowship, Planned Parenthood, the Midwest Innocence Project, and the Kansas City Interfaith Peace Alliance.

An avid long-distance runner, Holly has raised thousands of dollars by running marathons and gathering pledges for college scholarships for young people from migrant farmworker families to peasant villages in El Salvador.

She and her husband, Rev. Tom Hawley, are the parents of two children. Tom is a chaplain and therapist at Crittenton Children's Center and is active in the community with a particular passion for environmental concerns.
